I'm just a little girl and this world moves so fast,
So I take time to count my blessings before this moment has passed.
This year what I'm thankful for is my family and my friends,
The people around my dinner table and for a hug that never ends.
I know there's others out there not as blessed as I am, So giving back is the answer and I do what I can.
Some nights we take for granted a simple roof over our head, Forget how lucky we are to climb into our bed.
So take a moment tonight to think of all you are grateful for,
If you count your blessings always, you are sure to receive more.
