

I am thankful for my wonderful, great, and fantastic life. I am thankful for my wonderful friends around me. I am thankful for my friends around me because they help me with almost everything. For example, when I needed help on how to write a paragraph, they helped me. I'm also thankful for my friends because they keep me company. Once, at recess, there was nothing to play outside, then I saw my friends playing tag and it was fun.

The second reason I'm thankful for my great life is because of my pets. I'm thankful for my pets because they keep me curious about things. Like when my parrot climbed his cage, I wondered how strong his beak is and I also wondered if all parrots can do that. My last reason why I'm thankful for my pet is because it makes me laugh. When I saw my bird fall to the bottom of the cage it made me burst with laughter (luckily, my parrot wasn't hurt).

My last but not least reason why I'm thankful for my life is because of my family. I'm thankful for my family because they help me with problems I have. Once, I had a problem at school and told my parents the problem and they tried their best to fix it.

My second reason why I'm thankful for my family is because they try to keep me happy. Once, when I told my parents the problem, I was upset, but they tried to cheer me up. My last reason that I am thankful for my family is because they teach me new and cool games. Like when my Dad taught me some games he played when he was my age. It was interesting and so special because nobody knew that game so well. That is why I am thankful for my life.

By

Steven Kwon