

I'm Thankful For.....

I'm thankful for many things. I'm thankful for my family, friends, having money, food, water, shelter, and my life. I'm even more thankful for the people who protect me and others like firefighters, policemen, and the army.

These amazing people should always be thanked and honored on Thanksgiving because the risk their lives to save ours. When there's fire firefighters go in that fire and rescue the people in it and some might not come out. Police men track down people who steal money, rob homes, and some of them might shoot them. The army fights for our country and serves us so we can have the same rights as other countries.

So many people say that they're thankful for my family and friends and everyone should be thankful for them but include the people who protect us to make our country a better place. So on Thanksgiving don't forget to thank all those amazing people who protect us.

Thank You And The End
