

Metaphor for my family

I am thankful for my family because we are a body.

My mother is the head because she is the "brains" of the family.

My father is the body because he is the strength of this family.

My little brother is the arms because he is very active and never takes a break from anything.

My two dogs, Miley and Bella are the feet because they are like super dogs they are the fastest dogs I ever seen.

Lastly but not least me, I'm the legs because I get stuff when my parents need it and I help my family when they need help.

I', thankful for my family because we are a well working body.

~Miranda Carlo