Thank You for My Life

-Abdul Ghanie

I am thankful, for a loving, caring mother
A mother, of which I would never trade for another.
I am grateful, for a loyal, hardworking father
He loves and cares, that I wouldn't trade a dollar.

I am gratified for a responsible, role model for a sister
Even if our battles gives me a blister.
I am pleased for a dependable, thoughtful, and loyal sibling
I can always count on her, even if sometimes annoying.

I am satisfied with the place I call home
A humble place of mine for me and my family to roam.
I appreciate my education and all that I've learned
But I need to work hard, so that it can be earned.

I am beholden for the food on my plate, and the fresh, clean water I drink
I hope all the others supply does not greatly shrink.
These are only a few things that I am thankful for
And I must assure you there is a lot more.
I hope that everyone can live like this
For this is my thanksgiving wish.
Compared to all I am thankful for, this poem is quite small
But until next time, until I write again I say one last thing, Thank you all.
