What I'm thankful for

There are many things that I am thankful for today and the previous days. I am going to write 2 things that im thankful for and why I am thankful for that. I am thankful for all wonderful things in life and all things that I have.

One and important thing im thankful for is for having my parents being there all the time and wishing they weren't divorced but I know they care for me and there to love me. Im thankful for this because alot of people dont have mother and father or never got to see them. Also because they're are kids in the world that I know sometimes that ~~deer~~ does not live with both parents.

A Second thing I am thankful for is my family. I am thankful for my family because they care for you. Im also thankful for my family because they are always by your side and there for you most of the time. Also because with your family you can learn many things and be successful or talk to them when you need help.
