

Catty Deoki

Class: 801

Date: November 16, 2011

I am Thankful For...

Thanksgiving is approaching hastily. Thanksgiving is not only about turkeys, we all have to remember the things we are thankful for. I am thankful for many things, but the top three things that I am thankful for are family, a good education, and friends.

My family is extremely important to me. They are the ones that are with you and supporting you through any circumstance. Family teaches you many important things such as being responsible and showing kindness. Also, they teach you the simple things like walking and talking. Family is also the same ones that are with you when certain friends turn on you. They are like your friends forever. You may get into fights, arguments, or disagreements but at the end you always make up, that's why I am so grateful for my family.

In many countries around the world many children have to pay for education, or some families can't even afford to get an education for their child; in this country we are able to get free education. Many people across the country take this for granted. I always try not to take my education for granted because when I look back at certain family members I remember that they could not afford to get an education. This is why I am also thankful for my education.

Last but not least, I am thankful for my friends. Friends keep me motivated in school. They are the ones you can tell your secrets to. They're the same one that you call when you're bored or give you birthday cards on your birthday. Friends always have your back when you are in trouble, that's why I am thankful for friends

These are some of the things I am thankful for: family, a good education, and friends. For this thanksgiving try to remember the things you're thankful for