Car Accident

“Oh my god” I said while driving by a horrible car accident. I felt so bad for the people in the accident. Well, let me start me story, I’m thankful for my dad surviving a car accident.

It all happened on January 2nd 2008. It happened because the guy on the side of him was going slower than my dad. So, he thought that my dad was racing him and when my dad tried to go in the other guy’s lane the guy smashed right into my dad on purpose. My dad was furious.

He was aggravated so he pulled over and asked the guy what he did that for. The guy responded with attitude and said “Because we were racing stupid.” “Alright now why would we be racing?” my dad said. It seemed like the guy got scared because he jumped in the car and zoomed off.

My dad raced home to call the number he had seen on the top of the other guy’s car. When he got home everyone wondered what he was doing. We asked and we begged him to tell us, he just wouldn’t tell us. So he called the number and what do you know it was Dominos Pizza. He bugged out and asked them who the guy was, but they didn’t know. My dad tried to describe him as best he could, they just didn’t know.

But when he got off the phone I went to my friend's house so I don't know what happened after that. But it was pretty scary and I am thankful that my Dad is still alive, because a stupid prank could have cost him his life.
