

I am thankful for. . .

One of the many things I am thankful for is to have a wonderful family who loves me and cares for me. I know that I love them to.

One reason I am thankful for my family is because my mom, the one who cooks the most AMAZING food that I love I know that I wouldn't survive without food and she is the reason I get fed. She also does many, many things that I can't list them all, such as get me ready for school, give me her trust and love.

Another reason I am thankful for my family is for my dad. My dad is wonderful; he's the one that makes our living, other wise known as cash. Now that's important. We need cash to pay bills and taxes and even the most important thing, shelter.

Now last but not least my little sister Perry, now I don't know if I could live without her. She has a lot of creativity. She is the one I can, just have fun with. She also has a huge imagination. She is only three but she can act like a six year old.

My family when they are not all together is like a piece of art with no color. We stick like glue and never fall apart. I am really thankful for my family, and I would never say other wise.
