What I Am Thankful For This Year

There are two things that I am thankful for this year. The first thing that I am thankful for is my family. I am also thankful for my education. These things are very important in my life.

I am thankful for my family because they do stuff with me such as going on great vacations and riding our bikes along the canal. Another way that I'm thankful for them is that they gave me a nice house to live in and they just got me a new bed. I love my family because they get me the stuff I need. They buy me books, food, and toys. They also help me with my homework. My mom, dad, sister and dog are my best friends.

I am thankful for my education because it helps me to understand the work that I'm doing in school such as math, science, and social studies. My education also helps me figure out difficult puzzles. The one thing that makes it special is that it helps me understand what happened in history.

My family and my education are important to me this year. They're super important to me because they are both a big part of my life. My family helps me throughout the time I'm at school.
