

McKenna Joint

During Thanksgiving time, I think about what I am thankful for. I am most thankful for my friends and family. Family is what I am most thankful for because some people are orphans. They don't know who their parents are and have to live with foster families who might be mean. It is also good to have a family who is always there for you. Parents make sure that you have a ride home from everywhere you go and they make sure you have something to eat every day. Friends are good to have because they always stand by you and help you. They are people you can have fun with and not always be serious. One more thing I am very thankful for is a place to live. There are some people who live on the streets and do not have enough money to live somewhere. If you have a house, then you probably have enough food and water to survive. People who live in poor countries, especially places in Africa, don't have enough water. Take a moment to think about how much water we waste, taking showers, pouring ourselves a cup of water and not drinking all of it. Then think of Africa. You are probably thankful for living in a country with lots of water to. Thanksgiving is a time to be thankful for everything you have and that's exactly what I'm thankful for.