

“OMG” Cassandra are you alright?
My cousin Cassandra got stitches in her chin. I was so worried and concerned about her because she is nice, treats me with kindness, and she is so so so so so special to me. She fell and when she fell she fell the wrong way and it hit her chin but hey a least she didn't hit something she needed or was very important to her body. That's what I'm thankful for, for her to not have had more damage done to her chin then she needed to. 😊

By Jillian Jeacoma