

I Really Do Love You <3

By: Destiny Marino

I thought I would always despise of you.
I thought my heart would never have room for you.
I was so certain that you would never be apart of the people I confide in.
But something clicked in my growing mind, and I realized I really do love you!
Then, I thought you were the greatest thing a girl can ever dream of having.
I am so certain that it will always be like that.
I thought that I was never going to get a father.
I thought I would always have to be terrified of men.
But now I am certain, that you're my best friend and a brilliant dad.

I thought I would always despise of you.
I thought my heart would never have room for you.
I was so certain that I would never have siblings, but now look, I have two!
But something clicked in my growing mind, when I heard you call me by my name, and I realized that I really do love you!
Then, I thought you were the best brother a sister can have.
I am so certain that it will always be like that.
I thought I was never going to get a brother.
I thought I was always going to be a single child.
But now I am certain, that you're apart of my life, and a great brother!