When we got off the bus we went in a red building that we putted our lunches into the building. We went to Joe our instructor and we did the five finger contract. Then Joe talked to us about trust. Next we went up in the woods to play this game called islands when you have two boards that can't fit all the way across. So we had to put the two boards in a strange form to get to the second island without falling in to the water and dround then we'd would have to start all over again .So then we got students to the second island but, we'd all couldn't all fit on that second island so we had to lose some student so some of us had to go on to the last island. So some of us moved and made it across to the thread island. Then we had to bring back the two boards to the 1st island because some students didn't make it across so they got the boards and put them together and they got to the other side from the second to the therd island. Then we went to this big huge peace cross.
