

There are so many things that people can be thankful for, but each person has their own opinion. In my opinion, I am thankful for my mom. She is the most wonderful person in my life; she does so much for me even when I don't deserve it. She does so much that sometimes I don't even notice, but she does those things anyway. My dream is to become an artist; my mom wants me to succeed in whatever I want to be. So she buys me art supplies and gives me my own personal space to do my art. My final reason for being thankful for my mom is that she is there for me and loves me no matter what.

Yet another person I am thankful for is my sister, although she is just a baby, she is very important to me. She makes my day brighter when I come home crabby. She can change my mood by just smiling that toothless smile of hers. It doesn't even bother me when I can smell her dipper from across the living room. I know that even though she is a baby, that she loves me. That excuses all her sisterly flaws.

My education is very important to me, which is why I am very thankful for all my teachers. Without them, I would have no future. They have patience for me and my class mates even though I know some times they would like to toss us out the window. So far this year, I have already learned a lot and plan to learn even more as the year goes on. Once again, I am very thankful for all my teachers.

Friends are the people who get me through my daily life. I am extremely thankful for them. They are people I can really talk when I need to. They are there when I want to have fun, they know me and care about my feelings and want my company. There aren't enough words to describe how thankful I am for them. I don't know what I would do without them; they are the best kind of people. The thoughtful kind, the nice kind, and the considerate kind. In conclusion, I am very thankful for all the people, places and things I have in my life. I will continue to always be thankful for these things and wish everyone a wonderful thanksgiving.
