New York's SFY 2009-10 Budget includes legal and financial support for the Adirondack Region Medical Home. The Adirondack Medical Home project has been highlighted as a special initiative to improve healthcare delivery by enhancing access to primary care.

New York is a national innovator when it comes to the medical home, and the Adirondack Region Medical Home project is a leading example. It is a comprehensive demonstration that brings together providers and payers throughout the North Country. The pilot is expected to improve access to services, improve the quality of care, and lower costs over the five years of the project.
