Back to School Backpacks and Supplies

I would like to personally thank everyone who contributed to my Back to School Backpacks and Supplies drive. There was another overwhelming response. Throughout the past month, my office has collected a number of folders, pens, pencils, notebooks, and backpacks for school children to use this school year.

If you have not yet dropped off your supplies, and want to take part, feel free to do so any day during the week before the new school year starts.

On Tuesday morning, all school supplies and backpacks that I have collected so far will be delivered to the Greece Ecumenical Clothes Closet, who will then distribute the supplies and backpacks to our community's children.

Thank you again for your support and best wishes to you and your family on a successful 2011-2012 school year!

Caring and Sharing Center Opens

On Wednesday night, I had the privilege to speak at, and attend, a ceremony to open the Caring and Sharing Junior Academy Center in the city. Congratulations to all the kids on a great job with their student expressions and affirmations projects. Best wishes to everyone involved with the Caring and Sharing on this new venture!
