1199 SEIU

EMPLOYMENT CENTER

The 1199SEIU Employment Center is an employment service for the healthcare industry on Staten Island. We are open to the general public and have been serving the Staten Island area for 13 years. Our service matches qualified applicants with job opportunities in Staten Island's Hospitals, Nursing Homes, Ambulatory Care Center and other healthcare facilities.

How to access the Employment Center:

We welcome any qualified healthcare professional to contact us via e-mail, fax, sending your resume or by calling our office. All the information you need is listed for you convenience.

We recruit for all positions such as clerical/administrative support, service-industry social worker, nursing, licensed maintenance, technical staff and a host of other job openings. If you think about a city and all the people it takes to keep if functioning, that's similar to the range of positions needed to run every aspect of a healthcare organization.

What advantages do you have using the Employment Center?

As an individual it may be hard to know what's available in the job market and the requirements for positions in healthcare. The hospitals and nursing homes on Staten Island regularly reach out to us with job opportunities. Many healthcare facilities are open 24/7 and are in constant need for employees available to work full time, part time, per diem and a variety of hours and variety of shifts.

The Employment Center offer s full placement services including, resume reviews, screening, one-on-one interviews, and applicant matching. Intake sessions are conducted a few times each week. The intake sessions are designed to have our recruiters meet one on one with eligible candidates to guide them through the interview process.

How does the Employment Center Benefit YOU and the Staten Island Community?

By working where you live, you have a vested interest in helping your community. You help grow the economy where you live and where you work. Staten Island residents won't need to travel far to find employment. Everything you need is right here on Staten Island in your own backyard.

Are there job categories in high demand?

Currently we have a particular need for positions In Nursing (Certified Nursing Attendants, Certified Medical Assistants, Patient Care Associates, and Licensed Practical Nurses), Licensed Master Social Workers and CASAC's. Requirements for positions vary. At a minimum, a HSD/GED is required and some jobs require state certification and or license with a college degree.

We look forward to continue to serve the Staten Island Community and strive to be your Employment Center Of choice.
