Governor Andrew M. Cuomo

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people in the public sector who are employed in health care has increased from 2.5 million to 3.5 million (Department of Health 2000).

There are a number of reasons for this increase. One of the main reasons is the ageing of the population. The number of people aged 65 and over in the UK has increased from 5.5 million in 1990 to 7.5 million in 2000 (Department of Health 2000). This has led to an increase in the number of people who are dependent on health care services.

Another reason for the increase is the growth of the public sector. The public sector has grown from 10.5 million in 1990 to 12.5 million in 2000 (Department of Health 2000). This has led to an increase in the number of people who are employed in the public sector.

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are employed in the public sector has increased from 10.5 million to 12.5 million, and the number of people in the public sector who are employed in health care has increased from 2.5 million to 3.5 million (Department of Health 2000).

There are a number of reasons for this increase. One of the main reasons is the increasing demand for health care services. The population of the UK is ageing, and there is a growing number of people with chronic conditions such as heart disease, diabetes, and asthma. This has led to an increase in the number of people who are hospitalized and the length of their stays. In addition, there has been a growing emphasis on preventive care, which has led to an increase in the number of people who are seen by their general practitioners and other health care professionals.
