Senator Pam Helming presented the New York State Senate Empire Award to Advanced Atomization Technologies in Clyde, NY to celebrate the businesses 10th Anniversary.

AA Tech is home to over 300 employees and under its previous name Parker Hannifin, has operated in Wayne County for several decades. Their products are installed on almost every commercial aviation and industrial engine manufactured by GE Aerospace.

Advanced Atomization Technologies designs, produces, and supports fuel nozzles for some of the most powerful and efficient GE, CFM, and Engine Alliance gas turbine engines in the world. The company is uniquely competitive with design, assembly, test, and aftermarket support capabilities.

Senator Helming thanked AA Tech for its ongoing commitment to our region and for its many contributions to the community. The award was presented during the company's 10th Anniversary celebration, which was attended by hundreds of their employees.

Senator Helming said "We are proud to have AA Tech headquartered right here in Clyde and the 54th District. To General Manager Matt Cichocki and the entire AA Tech team, thank you for your continued commitment and investment to our region. I wish you continued growth and success!"

The Empire Award recognizes the contributions and achievements of businesses in New York State.
