| ISSUE: DISTRICT OFFICE, COMMUNITY COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

Levittown, NY — New York State Senator Steve Rhoads welcomed an enthusiastic crowd of community members, families, and local leaders from across the 5th Senate District to the official ribbon cutting ceremony of his District Office at 2900 Hempstead Turnpike in Levittown.

The event was a celebration of civic pride and community connection, drawing overwhelming support and attendance from every corner of the district, underscoring Senator Rhoads' commitment to being accessible and community focused.

"This office is more than just a place where legislative work gets done," said Senator Steve Rhoads. "It's a community hub—a place where everyone should feel welcome to stop in, say hello, or get help with an issue. I want people to know that my door is always open."

Local civic leaders, small business owners, disability advocates, chamber of commerce members, school board members, veterans, first responders, and nonprofit partners were among the many who stopped by to show their support for the new office, which serves constituents in Bellmore, North Bellmore, Bethpage, East Meadow, Farmingdale, Hicksville, Levittown, Plainview, Merrick, North Merrick, Old Bethpage, Seaford, Wantagh, and parts of Westbury, Woodbury, Jericho, and Syosset.

The opening marks a new chapter in Senator Rhoads' efforts to stay deeply connected to the people he represents. Conveniently located in the heart of his Senate District, the new Levittown office serves as an accessible resource for constituents seeking assistance, guidance, or support on state-related matters.
