Senator Addabbo presents citations to Adeeb and Naveed Razzaque.

Senator Joseph P. Addabbo, Jr. awarded citations to the brothers Naveed (age 15) and Adeeb (age 10) Razzaque of Ozone Park for their community-oriented entrepreneurial ventures. The clothing brand 4RB was founded by the brothers who use their company to both motivate young people and donate funds to support local children's charitable activities. Rounding out their family team are their 3-year-old twins, Asim and Arshan.

"Young entrepreneurs like Naveed and Adeeb prove to everyone that age does not limit someone from creating beneficial change," Addabbo said. "They display exceptional dedication to community service which embodies the heart of community development."

4RB represents the four Razzaque brothers who embody the combination of family values and dreams with community spirit and entrepreneurial drive. The grandparents of the Razzaque brothers came to America with dreams of improving their lives which they successfully achieved. The brothers follow their family legacy by using their opportunities to give back to society in their own unique way.

"We are very excited about our brand and mission to give back to causes that support children's activities," Naveed said. "Thank you to Senator Addabbo for your recognition. It is encouraging to know that someone in your position is paying attention to your community, including young people like us."

The concept of 4RB emerged during 2023 when their uncle created a hoodie with Adeeb's name printed on the chest. Adeeb took the hoodie to his school where it quickly gained popularity. His excitement sparked a desire to launch their own brand. The 4RB website has trendy apparel and other items for all ages and genders. The Razzaque brothers take pride in representing the diverse cultural aspects along with styles of their Queens neighborhood.
