Bill S4921, which passed the Senate on Wednesday, would help prevent cyber-bullying as well as conventional bullying on school grounds to create safer learning environments for our children.

Unrelenting incidents of cyber-bullying and conventional bullying have taken place throughout the State and among diverse age groups. This type of behavior takes a tremendous emotional toll on victims of bullying. With this new legislation, schools will have the tools to help reduce bullying and increase education about bullying prevention. For more information on this new legislation, visit my website at www.robach.nysenate.gov.
