The Parent Resource Center, which has been in existence since 1980, has developed a reputation as a treasure in the Port Washington community. Located in the Landmark building, the Parent Resource Center succeeds in its mission to provide a safe and healthy environment for parents and children to learn, have fun, and make friends.

This was no more evident than at holiday time when the PRC held a holiday party for parents and children who take advantage of the wide variety of programs the center offers. In attendance were State Senator Jack M. Martins and Nassau County Legislator Wayne Wink to lend their support of the this parent-run cooperative.

“The Parent Resource Center has done wonderful things in partnering parents and children so that they can learn together. The programs facilitate learning by enabling parents and their children to be partners in the education process. I commend all of the officers, board of directors, committee chairs, staff and volunteers for their efforts in providing this ,” said Senator Martins.
