Senator Jack M. Martins was among the guest readers at the Munsey Park School in Manhasset. Although it was a rainy Friday morning, it was bright and cheery within the confines of the Munsey Park School in Manhasset. Senator Martins and other elected officials such as Nassau County Legislature Judi Bosworth and North Hempstead Town Clerk Leslie Gross had the opportunity to read with the students.

The program allows students to share books with leaders from the community who encourage the students to continue to read.
