

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Jose M. Serrano

Severe Weather Advisory Issued for NYC

JOSÉ M. SERRANO February 8, 2013

| ISSUE: GENERAL

At the direction of the Mayor, the public is hereby advised that significant snowfall has been forecast starting today in the afternoon through Saturday morning.

1. The public is urged to avoid all unnecessary driving during the duration of the storm and, until further directed, to use public transportation wherever possible. As New Yorkers are making their commuting plans for tomorrow, they should be aware that driving conditions will be difficult. If you must drive, use extreme caution.

2. The MTA has advised of potential service disruptions, and information about any service changes to public transportation is available on the MTA website at <http://www.mta.info/>.

3. Any vehicle found to be blocking roadways or impeding the ability to plow streets shall be subject to towing at the owner's expense.

4. Alternate side parking is suspended citywide through Sunday. Due to anticipated high winds the Staten Island Ferry will be operating on a modified schedule beginning tomorrow afternoon.

5. The Emergency Management, Fire, Police, Sanitation, and Transportation Commissioners will be taking all appropriate and necessary steps to preserve public safety and to render all required and available assistance to protect the security, well-being and health of the residents of the City.

6. City government and public schools are open tomorrow. After-school programs are subject to cancellation.

7. Due to potential power outages and transportation difficulties, New Yorkers are advised to stock up on potential supplies, including medicine.

8. Please be prepared with 3-5 days worth of water and food in case of the loss of power.
