BRONX, NY – Senator Jeff Klein (D-Bronx/Westchester) was honored by the Hebrew Home at Riverdale on Friday, December 12th, where the acclaimed non-profit geriatric care organization presented him with the “Partner in Quality” award. The prestigious award recognized Senator Klein for his long-standing commitment to improving the quality of life of Riverdale seniors through an array of community programs, services and initiatives.

“No matter what age – everybody needs a helping hand. The folks at Hebrew Home are some of the most fun-loving, passionate people I have ever met. And this award is a testament to our partnership and our continual efforts to make an impact on the lives of all seniors across New York State. I can’t thank everyone enough for this honor and I look forward to working together for many years to come,” said Senator Jeff Klein.

"Senator Klein’s focus on much-needed financial relief for seniors sends a message that seniors should not have to choose between health and quality of life,” said Daniel Reingold, President and CEO of the Hebrew Home at Riverdale. “As a friend and supporter of the Hebrew Home for decades, we are honored to present Senator Klein with this much deserved award.”

Hebrew Home at Riverdale strives to create a nurturing environment where older adults do not just live, but thrive. The non-profit organization is committed to providing the best long-term, quality care, while at the same time, supporting the religious beliefs of its residents and helping them to remain independent and able.
