Senator Jack M. Martins (R-7th Senate District) was recently invited to Manhasset High School by members of the Student Council to share “pizza and politics.”

Senator Martins talked about his job as a New York State Senator, discussed issues with the students, and answered questions they had about government and politics.

“The Student Council are a great group of kids who are very bright, eager to get involved, and asked some really interesting questions. I enjoyed spending time with them and thank them for inviting me,” said Senator Martins.
