Fighting and Voting for Marriage Equality

DANIEL L. SQUADRON December 7, 2009

| ISSUE: HUMAN RIGHTS, CIVIL RIGHTS

The past session in Albany was capped with a grave disappointment for me, as marriage equality was defeated on the floor of the Senate. I voted, and argued, and fought for passage of the bill. I am deeply disappointed that we did not win marriage equality this time, but I am committed to winning over my colleagues, bringing the bill back to the floor, and expanding equal rights to all New Yorkers.
