THE NEW STATE BUDGET FOR 2012-2013

It's important that the past two years have produced on-time state budgets and actions that put the brakes on runaway spending and higher taxes, and that signal a future of spending control, tax relief and private-sector job growth.

It's important that the past two years, even in the face of deficits and a nationwide economic crisis, have produced fiscal reforms and a stronger commitment to upstate economic growth and other fundamental priorities.

There's more we need to do and we're going to keep at it. But we're moving in the right direction.
