March Against Violence

JOSEPH E. ROBACH April 11, 2012

ISSUE: FAMILIES, CRIME, VICTIMS, CHILDREN, YOUTH

Recently, I had the privilege to take part in the March Against Violence. The march was organized by Bridges to Wellness, which is a community health initiative in northeast Rochester that engages residents to bring about positive changes to their community. The march was put on by Bonita Blocker, whose brother was murdered and Jesse Knoth, who is the reisdent organizer/youth coordinator for Bridges to Wellness.
