

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Joseph E. Robach

Local Student Athletes Sign National Letters of Intent

JOSEPH E. ROBACH February 7, 2013

| ISSUE: EDUCATION, HIGHER EDUCATION, YOUTH

On Wednesday afternoon, Changing the Community (CTC) held a ceremony to honor six local high school football players, who were a part of the organization's football camp, as they signed their letters of intent to play college football. The students honored were: Alex Officer of Eastridge High School who is heading to University of Pittsburgh; Chauncey Scissum of Rush-Henrietta High School heading to Syracuse University; Cullen Casey of McQuaid Jesuit High School heading to Old Dominion University; Qwaheem Marshall who played for Wilson Magnet and is heading to Gannon; Rod Stevens of Webster Thomas High School who is heading to Grambling; and Dan Leonard of Bath who is heading to West Liberty. Congratulations again to all of our student-athletes who signed their letters of intent yesterday!