State Senator Patty Ritchie Thursday joined local leaders to mark the official opening of the St. Lawrence Wine Trail, the state's 18th wine trail, which will help draw tourists to the area, create jobs and support local businesses.

Established through legislation sponsored by Senator Ritchie, the trail spans 80 miles, starting near Black Lake's Bella Brooke Winery in Morristown, extending to Lisbon's River Myst Winery and then to High Peaks Winery in Winthrop. In addition, the trail was also designed to bring visitors to St. Lawrence Brewing's microbrewery in Canton, allowing the four companies additional opportunities to work together and market the new tourist destination.

"Here in the North Country—as well as across New York State—the wine and craft beer industries are booming," said Senator Ritchie.

"The St. Lawrence Wine Trail capitalizes on the popularity of those industries and by literally putting these local businesses on the map, we have created a new tourist destination that will help bring visitors to our region, as well as create jobs by encouraging more people to shop locally and explore all we have to offer."

Recently, more than 90 highway signs marking the new wine trail were placed throughout its 80 mile span. In addition, now available through the St. Lawrence County Chamber of Commerce are brochures and a website that include a map of the trail, winery descriptions and information on other local attractions.

According to the New York Wine and Grape Foundation, in 1976 there were just 14 wineries in New York State. Today, that number has ballooned to more than 1,600 family vineyards and over 350 wineries.
