ALBANY, NY – Senator Terrence has announced a $6,087,979 windfall that will provide a healthy dose of economic subsidies for 15 economic development projects in the 40th Senate District.

The money is part of a statewide package of $700 million that was awarded to the Hudson Valley, New York City, the Capital Region, Finger Lakes, and Mohawk Valley by Governor

Andrew Cuomo at the Governor's sixth annual Regional Economic Development Council (REDC) awards held on Thursday in Albany. Since its inception in 2011, the REDC has brought more than $4.6 billion into communities throughout the state.

The Regional Councils have redefined the way New York invests in jobs and economic growth by putting in place a community-based, bottom up approach and establishing a competitive process for State resources.

"I want to congratulate all of the applicants who have worked so hard through this process," Senator Murphy said. "The funds awarded by the REDC will empower local governments, businesses and private citizens, shape the future of their communities by funding projects that will improve infrastructure, and enhance other issues that will improve quality of life."

"Replacing the Hollowbrook station is another step in the City's modernization and revitalization. By utilizing sophisticated technologies we will ensure that the City's sewer system will meet all water quality standards for decades to come," said Peekskill Mayor Frank Catalina. "And by establishing a Microenterprise Program promoting small businesses we will have a positive effect on the City's continued economic growth by helping residents generate income, build assets and enhance their talents and skills."

Putnam County Executive MaryEllen Odell said, "I was very proud to be at the state capital yesterday to see firsthand the fiscal reward of great teamwork. Congratulations to Mayor Shoenig, Village Clerk, Peter Hanson, Deputy Commissioner of Planning, Sandra Fusco and County Planner, Barbara Barossa of the Putnam County Planning Dept., as well as Senator Terrence Murphy for supporting this very important project. This 2 million dollar award speaks to the hope and the future of economic development here in Putnam County. As we close 2016, this is the perfect high note for the Year of Business Development."

Brewster Mayor James Schoenig said, “The Village of Brewster is determined to implement Transit Oriented Development and become a thriving social and economic hub of the Harlem Valley once again. We will strengthen our community and contribute to Putnam County and the Hudson Valley Region’s continuous improvement. This $2,000,000 Empire State Development Grant comes at a perfect time as we are on the leading edge of transformation and in continued partnership with Putnam County, our preferred developer, and the supportive partners who have helped us along the way, we can invigorate our community and become a vibrant place to live, work and play.
