SEN. GRIFFO'S WEEKLY COLUMN: Maple Weekend a sweet time for everyone

JOSEPH A. GRIFFO March 5, 2018

Maple not found or type unknown

By New York State Senator Joseph A. Griffo, R-Rome, 47th District

If you eat pancakes or waffles for breakfast, you might reach for that container of syrup to add a little sweetness to your morning meal.

While there is a wide variety of imitation syrup available, nothing beats the real stuff. Here in New York and in my district, we know that's the case.

Our state is one of the top producers of syrup in the country, producing more than 750,000 gallons of syrup last year, according to reports. That total surpasses the amount of syrup produced in 2016 by 7.5 percent.

The state is home to the largest resource of tappable maple trees in the country, according to the New York State Maple Producers Association. In fact, there were more than 2.5 million taps in production in New York State in 2016, according to reports.

We will celebrate our state's local producers of maple syrup in March. This year, Maple Weekend, sponsored by the New York State Maple Producers Association, will take place March 17-18 and March 24-25. During these two weekends, visitors are invited to check out maple farms throughout the state to get a first-hand look at how syrup and other maple products are made, taste the many maple products that are made at each location and meet the producers and families that work hard to these products to you.
