Senator Serrano gave remarks at the 12th annual Parks Advocacy Day in Albany. The event was filled with park advocates from across the state and showcased the 200 parks and historic sites throughout New York.

“I am always honored to speak at the annual Parks Advocacy Day. I sincerely believe in the transformative and beneficial effects that our state parks, natural wonders, and great outdoors have on all of us. Many thanks to all the advocates who traveled to Albany to help ensure that our parks remain viable for generations to come.”
