

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Alessandra Biaggi

SENATOR BIAGGI AND SENATE MAJORITY PASS ONE-HOUSE BUDGET RESOLUTION: LEADING NEW YORK THROUGH COVID-19 & BEYOND

ALESSANDRA BIAGGI March 16, 2021

ALBANY, NY – Yesterday, Senator Alessandra Biaggi and the Senate Democratic Majority passed its one-house budget resolution that will deliver emergency aid to help New York recover from the COVID-19 pandemic and invest in a more equitable future by funding essential services and putting more money in the pockets of working families. The Senate resolution increases total school aid by $5.7 billion, provides millions in residential and commercial rental and foreclosure assistance, restores critical funding to our health care system, and supports our economy with investments in transportation and small businesses. The Senate Majority's proposal asks the wealthiest New Yorkers to pay their fair share rather than balancing the budget on the backs of working families.

While the proposal includes progressive changes to the tax code, there is more the State must do to equitably raise revenue. Additional taxes on the ultra-wealthy include implementing the stock-transfer tax and the Pied-à-terre tax — to capture funds from financial activity and tax on luxury second-homes in New York City — as well as reinstating sales and compensating use taxes for private aircrafts in New York State. One-time federal aid and temporary revenue raisers are not enough to support our communities through the COVID-19 recovery and create sustainable forms of revenue to help New York State build for the future.

State Senator Alessandra Biaggi (D-Bronx/Westchester) issued the following statement:

“New York faces a crisis — across our state, families are facing food insecurity, fear losing their homes, and are still trying to recover from lost income during the pandemic. The one-house budget resolution takes meaningful steps to meet the urgency of this moment. The resolution proposes common sense updates to an outdated tax code and provides significant resources to working families during this difficult time. I’m committed to advocating for additional taxes on the ultra-wealthy to make our tax code more equitable, and to create sustainable revenue raisers — but this resolution leads our state in that direction. For this reason, I’m proud to join my colleagues in passing the one-house budget.”

REBUILDING OUR ECONOMY

As we work to rebuild our economy, the Senate Majority will continue supporting small businesses who have suffered throughout this pandemic to create jobs and economic growth across New York State. ENSURING THE ULTRA-WEALTHY PAY THEIR FAIR SHARE

We can not financially burden our already struggling working and middle class families. As New York State works to address the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, ultra-wealthy New Yorkers need to pay their fair share. This new revenue will help equitably fund crucial services such as public education, infrastructure and assistance for small businesses. The Senate Majority one-house State Budget proposal includes:

- Modifying the Executive proposal to impose a surcharge on high income earners for tax years 2021, 2022, and 2023, which if enacted would have increased All Funds revenue by $1.5 billion in SFY 2021-22. The Senate increases the top state personal income tax rate on the highest earners and raises All Funds revenue by $4.15 billion in SFY 2021-22.
 - Single filers earning more than $1.078 million but below $5 million would see their rates on income above $1.078 million increase by 1.03 percentage points, from 8.82% to 9.85%.
 - Similarly, married joint filers earning more than $2.155 million but less than $10 million would see their tax rates on income between $2.155 million and $10 million increase by 1.03 percentage points, from 8.82% to 9.85%.

- The total revenue raised by the Senate's tax proposals is $8.2 billion in SFY 2021-22.
