

NEW YORK STATE SENATOR

Samra G. Brouk

Senator Brouk Votes to Pass Legislation To Promote New York's Agricultural Industry

SAMRA G. BROUK March 9, 2022

| ISSUE: AGRICULTURE, FARMERS' MARKET, FARMERS, CORNELL COOPERATIVE EXTENSION, FARM TO SCHOOL

ALBANY, NY - Senator Samra Brouk and the Senate Democratic Majority voted today to pass legislation to improve agricultural development and the accessibility of local goods in New York State. The package would enable schools to better source local goods and aim for 15% of all food products purchased by state agencies to be New York based; expand the New York loan forgiveness program for young farmers; establish the office of urban agriculture; increase the number of farmers markets; develop educational materials for farmers on the use of agrivoltaics and promote co-locating solar power on active farmland; create a farming hotline with the Cornell cooperative extension as well as a New York State council on food policy, and increase the farm workforce retention credit. The proposed bills acknowledge the crucial role that local farms play in New York's sustainability and its future growth potential.

Chair of the Senate Committee on Mental Health and bill cosponsor, Senator Samra Brouk, said,

"We must address the real economic concerns facing the agriculture industry to alleviate hardships and position the sector for growth. The Finger Lakes Region is home to many farms, vineyards and breweries and I am proud that today, the Senate is standing up for these family-owned small businesses."

Chair of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and bill sponsor, Senator Michelle Hinchey, said,

"Protecting our agricultural economy, and the farmers and farm businesses that support it, is a priority in the New York State Senate. This robust legislative package that we've passed today is a testament to the far-reaching work of the Senate Agriculture Committee and showcases our commitment to the industry by bolstering access to fresh, healthy food for all New Yorkers, providing assistance to new and seasoned farmers alike, and strengthening agriculture's impact in the fight against the climate crisis. I'm proud of this slate of bills that will bring meaningful and direct support to our small and mid-size farmers across the state and thank my colleagues for their partnership in passing these bills today."

The legislation passed by the Senate Majority, includes:

- Farm Workforce Retention Credit Increase: This bill, S.3502A, sponsored by Senator Michelle Hinchey, increases the amount of the farm workforce retention credit from $600 to $1,200 per farm employee for tax years 2021 through 2025.

- New York State Food Products: This bill, S.6808A, sponsored by Senator Michelle Hinchey, aims to increase the market for New York's agricultural industry's products by setting goals for procurement of local foods by state agencies and facilities.
- The Young Farmers Loan Forgiveness Act: This bill, S.4082, sponsored by Senator Michelle Hinchey, expands eligibility for the New York State Young Farmer Loan Forgiveness Incentive Program. This bill removes the requirement that the eligible person graduated college in the last two years and expands eligibility to farmers who have produced agricultural products for less than ten years.
- The One-Stop Farming Hotline: This bill, S.4072, sponsored by Senator Michelle Hinchey, establishes a farming hotline, with assistance from the Cornell Cooperative Extension. The hotline provides information on all aspects of farming including tax credit programs, beginning farmer loans, and sustainable practices.
- The Office of Urban Agriculture: This bill, S.8059A, sponsored by Senator Jamaal Bailey, establishes the office of Urban Agriculture to assist and promote different forms of urban farming across the state. The bill also requires the Commissioner of the Department of Agriculture and Markets to convene an urban agriculture task force to develop ways to encourage and expand urban agriculture to bridge the gap between urban agricultural businesses and urban food insecurity.
- Locally Sourced Goods For Schools: This bill, S.3974, sponsored by Senator Tim Kennedy, makes it easier for schools to procure a variety of local agricultural products into their food services.
- Produce Produced In State: This bill, S.2199, sponsored by Senator Tim Kennedy, directs the Department of Agriculture and Markets to develop and facilitate regional farmers markets to promote the direct marketing of farm products to large volume purchasers.

- Agrivoltaics In Farming Education: This bill, S.7861, sponsored by Senator Rachel May, directs the Department of Agriculture and Markets to provide guidance and educational materials on the benefits of co-locating solar power systems on active farmland for crop production. This bill also requires the Department to provide a booth at the state fair which will help educate the public on agrivoltaics in farming.
- The Local Food, Fams, and Jobs Act: This bill, S.549B, sponsored by Senator James Sanders Jr., creates the New York State Council on Food Policy to develop state food policies with the goal of ensuring that all New Yorkers are able to eat a healthy diet and avoid food insecurity while consuming New York grown foods as much as possible.
- Farmers Markets in State Parks: This bill, S.5006, sponsored by Senator Jose Serrano, permits farmers markets in state and local parks. This bill will increase access to locally grown food products.
