“New York is blessed to have West Point, one of the world’s finest military schools in our state, and doubly blessed to have many members of that storied academy as residents who exemplify the values of duty, honor and country. It was a pleasure to meet with and honor West Point Cadet Micaela Choi of Burnt Hills from my Senate District as well as all the cadets from across the state. They, and all of the men and women of our military, truly are the best, brightest and most compassionate fighting force for good on earth,” said Senator Jim Tedisco.
