The State Budget: Delivering for Long Island

SENATOR KEVIN THOMAS April 22, 2022

| ISSUE: NEW YORK STATE BUDGET

This month, the Governor and the New York State Legislature passed the New York State Budget for fiscal year 2022-2023. As your Senator, I fought hard to make sure that this year's budget will make a real difference in people's lives on Long Island now and for years to come.

This year's State Budget includes vital investments in education, child care, tax relief, gun violence prevention, healthcare, and more. Below are just some of the highlights of what we accomplished for Long Island:

a world-class education. We've secured more than $1 billion for statewide universal pre-Kindergarten, g sources, advance conservation efforts, and provide recreational opportunities for all New Yorkers.

23, to deliver relief to 6.1 million New Yorkers. The Budget also creates a new property tax relief cred ax imposed on fuel, the motor fuel tax, and the metropolitan commuter transportation district sale:
