Senator Dan Stec (R,C-Queensbury) today welcomed several Adirondack businesses and organizations to the well of the state Legislative Office Building in Albany for Adirondack Day. The event, which the senator co-sponsored, highlights the region's diverse economy and tourism opportunities. Stec joined Lieutenant Governor Delgado and state DEC Commissioner Segos in speaking at Adirondack Day and appreciated being able to help showcase the region.

“It was an honor to co-sponsor this year’s Adirondack Day and I enjoyed visiting with some of the community leaders and businesses that attended,” said Stec. “But more importantly, I was very proud to see them showcase the many wonders of the Adirondacks. Our region is home to great opportunity and potential, and Adirondack Day allowed all our lawmakers and state officials to see just how unique the Adirondacks truly are.”
