

I was simply wondering if it is possible to revert back to the old voting machine with the levers. With those there was no chance of misreading an entry or improperly marking a ballot. Call me old but I liked those darned machines better than what we do now with the markers and scanning.

There will also need to be stringent controls in place in order to prevent accusations of voting irregularities that tainted the 2020 election.