Health Care Proxy & Living Will Information

Dear Friend,

There are two ways to help ensure that your health care wishes will be respected: a health care proxy and a living will. Both documents indicate what life support treatments you accept or refuse in the event you become incapacitated.

A health care proxy form provides specific instructions and also designates another person, usually a family member, to make health care decisions if the patient becomes unable to do so.

A living will is a document that you sign in advance in which you provide specific instructions about health care treatment. Unlike the health care proxy, however, a living will does not appoint an agent to make health care decisions you did not anticipate when completing it.

I urge you to fill out both of these documents today. Writing a living will and appointing a health care proxy can ease the anguish of your relatives and loved ones in the event of a tragedy.

The following pages explain the health care proxy and the living will, and present you with an example of each.

I hope you find this information helpful. As always, if you have any questions or need further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Rubén Díaz, Sr.

Senator, 32nd Senatorial District

Instructions on Health Care Proxy

This is an important legal form. Before signing this form, you should understand the following facts:

- This form gives the person you choose as your agent the authority to make all health care decisions for you, except to the extent that you say otherwise in this form. "Health care" means any treatment, service or procedure to diagnose or treat your physical or mental condition.
- 2) Unless you say otherwise, your agent will be allowed to make all health care decisions for you, including decisions to remove or withhold life-sustaining treatment.
- 3) Unless you have given your agent oral or written instructions about artificial nutrition and hydration (nourishment and water provided by a feeding tube), he or she will not be allowed to refuse those measures for you.
- 4) Your agent will start making decisions for you when doctors decide that you are not able to make health care decisions for yourself.

You may write on this form any information about treatment that you do not desire and/or those treatments that you want to make sure you receive. Your agent must follow your instructions (oral and written) when making decisions for you.

If you want to give your agent written instructions, do so right on the form. For example, you could say:

- If I become terminally ill, I do/ don't want to receive the following treatments...
- If I am in a coma or unconscious, with no hope of recovery, then I do/don't want...
- If I have brain damage or a brain disease that makes me unable to recognize people or speak and there is no hope that my condition will improve, I do/don't want...

Examples of medical treatments that you may wish to give your agent special instructions about are listed below. This is not a complete list of the treatments, just a guide.

- artificial respiration
- artificial nutrition and hydration (nourishment and water provided by feeding tube)
- cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR)
- antipsychotic medication
- electric shock therapy
- antibiotics
- surgical procedures
- dialysis
- transplantation
- · blood transfusions
- abortion
- sterilization

Talk about choosing an agent with your family and/or close friends. You should discuss this form with a doctor or another health care professional, such as a nurse or social worker, before you sign it to make sure that you understand the types of decisions that may be made for you. You may also wish to give your doctor a signed copy. You do not need a lawyer to fill out this form.

You can choose any adult (over 18), including a family member or close friend, to be your agent. If you select a doctor as your agent, he or she may have to choose between acting as your agent or as your attending doctor; a physician cannot do both at the same time. Also, if you are a patient or resident of a hospital, nursing home, or mental hygiene facility, there are special restrictions about naming someone who works for that facility as your agent. You should ask staff at the facility to explain those restrictions.

You should tell the person you choose that he or she will be your health care agent. You should discuss your health care wishes and this form with your agent. Be sure to give him or her a signed copy. Your agent cannot be sued for health care decisions made in good faith.

Even after you have signed this form, you have the right to make health care decisions for yourself as long as you are able to do so, and treatment cannot be given to you or stopped if you object. You can cancel the control given to your agent by telling him or her or your health care provider orally or in writing.

Filling out the Proxy Form

Item (1) Write your name and the name, home address and telephone number of the person you are selecting as your agent.

Item (2) If you have special instructions for your agent, you should write them here. Also, if you wish to limit your agent's authority in any way, you should say so here. If you do not state any limitations, your agent will be allowed to make all health care decisions that you could have made, including the decision to consent to or refuse life-sustaining treatment.

Item (3) You may write the name, home address and telephone number of an alternate agent.

Item (4) This form will remain valid indefinitely unless you set an expiration date or condition for its expiration. This section is optional and should be filled in only if you want the health care proxy to expire.

Item (5) You must date and sign the proxy. If you are unable to sign yourself, you may direct someone else to sign in your presence. Be sure to include your address.

Two witnesses at least 18 years of age must sign your proxy. The person who is appointed agent or alternate agent cannot sign as a witness.

New York Living Will

INSTRUCTIONS

This living will is a legal document setting forth your directions regarding medical treatment. You have the right to refuse any treatment you do not want, and you may request the care you want.

You may make changes in any of these directions, or add changes to conform them to your personal wishes.

Sign and date here in the presence of two adult witnesses, who should also sign.

Keep the signed original with your personal papers at home. Give copies of the signed original to your doctor, family, lawyer and others who might be involved in your care.

This Living Will has been prepared to conform to the law in the State of New York, as set forth in the case of In re Westchester County Medical Center, 72 N.Y.2d 517 (1988). In that case the Court approved of the use of a Living Will, stating that the "ideal situation is one in which the patient's wishes were expressed in some form of writing, perhaps a 'living will."

I direct my attending physician to withhold or withdraw treatment that merely prolongs my dying, if I should be in an incurable or irreversible mental or physical condition with no reasonable expectation of recovery.

These instructions apply if I am a) in a terminal condition; b) permanently unconscious; or c) minimally conscious but have irreversible brain damage and will never regain the ability to make decisions and express my wishes.

I direct that treatment be limited to measures to keep me comfortable and to relieve pain, including any pain that might occur by withholding or withdrawing treatment.

While I understand that I am not legally required to be specific about future treatments, if I am in the condition(s) described above I feel especially strongly about the following forms of treatment:

I do not want cardiac resuscitation.

I do not want mechanical respiration.

I do not want tube feeding.

I do not want antibiotics.

I do want maximum pain relief.

Other directions (insert personal instructions):

These directions express my legal right to refuse treatment; under the law of New York. I intend my instructions to be carried out, unless I have rescinded them in writing or by clearly indicating that I have changed my mind.
