

Nassau Community College
President Hubert Keen

As the largest single community college campus in the State University, Nassau Community College provides education and service to the largest population – more than 1.4 million people – of any institution in SUNY. We enroll more than 20,000 students and minority enrollment exceeds 50%, a larger proportion than Nassau County's population.

In addition to our educating many students who transfer to senior colleges, Nassau fulfills the traditional mission providing academic programs that lead directly to the workforce. Most recently we have added programs in Hospitality Management and Culinary Arts to support the workforce in the ever growing tourism industry of Long Island.

As an institution that has for more than 65 years shone as a model of excellence in community college education, Nassau has enjoyed great support by the County and State and fulfilled its promise to hundreds of thousands of students. However, demands of recent years and the need to sustain physical facilities has taken their toll.

We appreciate the Deputy Speaker Earlene Hooper, the Legislature and Governor's support.
