

Earth day every day

By Olivia Riley

Oh Earth, your polluted gasses are as stinky as a dirty sock. Your landfills are big monsters eating up the Earth. Oh Earth, I would walk A billion miles if it meant taking all of your Trash away. Your dead trees swaying in the wind,
The forest fires started by careless people Trying to have fun. Oh Earth, how you try so hard.
Oh Earth, Your beautiful pink and orange sunsets fading into a clear night sky. Your beautiful sunrises waiting To rise into a clear day. Mother Nature waiting for the world to determine how it is going to treat her today. Oh Earth, at least there are some people out there who care. At least there are some people who will be there for you. Oh Earth, one day careless people will learn how to treat you right.
