

What I'm Thankful For...

This year I'm thankful for many things, here are some of them...

One of the things I'm thankful for are my big family. I'm thankful for my family because they help me and will always love me. Family is one of the things everyone should be grateful for because they help you through the hard times and even if they could get on your nerves you could easily forgive them because you've known them for your whole life. I'm very thankful to God for giving a great big family! I'm very glad they all love me.

I'm also very thankful for God giving me a house, shelter, and food. A lot of people don't realize how much God actually did for them. A lot of people don't have the same opportunities as us. We should all be thankful for even having a life to live. I'm thankful for everything I have. I'm thankful to live in America where i have the freedom to do and be what i want. In other places people are forced to do what they don't want to.

This is what I'm thankful for this year!
