This year has been filled with many roadblocks and challenges, but a lot of these problems have bettered me as a person. From having Covid-19 to having a concussion, I've had multiple things stop me from achieving my goals and having fun. However, I am thankful for these roadblocks. I'm thankful that these experiences made me appreciate my well-being and my freedom to go out and enjoy everyday things. I will forever be thankful for the better version of myself.
