I think the 3 R's could help our earth. But just in case you don't know what the 3 R's are I will tell you there is Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle. My favorites are reduce, because you get to be creative and make something new! Like some people make boats out of plastic bottles while engineers melt bottles and put them in 3D printers to build houses. What's your favorite out of the 3 R's?

The 3 R's are important to me and I hope it is important to you also. But reduce is my favorite out of the 3 R's because if you reduce less trash goes in the ocean or the landfills in the world, and it is sad when trash goes to landfills and the ocean. Well I have an idea.

Do you know the plastic rings that come with the Gatorade bottles, well we can return them every time so the world can have less plastic rings go to landfills and the oceans! Wait how do we get people to reuse the plastic rings? I know! We can set up big signs in stores or we can do stations around the world. And it doesn't just have to be plastic rings it can be many things like soda bottles and maybe markers and more.

In conclusion I just want to say that putting trash in the landfills and the oceans hurts me and I think we can change that by recycling and just following the rules.
