

Earth Day Essay

By Fiona K.

Did you know that the first Earth Day was in 1970? Also, about one billion people recognize Earth Day each year. Senator Gaylord Nelson created Earth Day fifty-one years ago.

My brother and I reuse the cardboard that we get from old cereal boxes and packages from online shopping to make fun creations. My favorite creation to make is a box fort. My friends and I made a eco friendly water filter for the science fair this year. Something that I have wanted to do is do a beach clean up. The stuff we clean up from the beach I want to use for art. Also, it does not need to be a beach clean up, it could be a different clean up. A fourth grade teacher at my school does a highway clean up with his class each year.

Do you know the struggle when you're watching a video on your phone and it keeps falling over? Have no fear because here comes a phone holder mader of a toilet paper roll and push pins. I have made a representation of what my invention is. You can decorate it however you like. I made this one a light blue color. This is just an example of you can reuse items to help our planet.
