

Is it Trash or Treasure?

Right now trash is something that is destroying our planet but what if in the future it is what's keeping it alive. But if we don't act now and reduce, reuse, and recycle then our future isn't looking so bright. We can reduce our use of plastic, we can reuse our reusable water bottles, and we can recycle to make other types of material. There is so much plastic, old clothes, old electronics, and ect. That we can reduce, reuse, and recycle into greater things for our future. All we have to do now is act. We have to join together no matter where we are, we have to start somewhere and by 2055 the world will be a happier, better place. Earth Day is the day we join together no matter what race or religion or sexualtiy you believe as long as you believe in a better future. Thank you for listening to what I hope is a step in the right direction, and a cleaner Earth.
